

ARMIES ARE GIRDING FOR THE BIG DRIVE AGAINST GERMANS AND THE MOSLEMS

British Cabinet Ministers Practically Tell House of Commons That Time Has Arrived for Big Effort in War.

BY SEA AND BY LAND ATTACK WILL BE MADE BY THE ALLIED FORCES

Britain Stops Steamboat Communication With Holland—British Submarines Are Operating in the Bight of Helgoland—Big Land Force Ready to Attack Turks.

London, April 22.—Following accounts of the strength and condition of the British army and of the most intense activity of the output of munitions, which it is expected, next month will amount to twenty-five times what it was last September, given by David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, and Harold J. Tennant, parliamentary secretary of the war office, in the house of commons, have increased enthusiasm and confidence of the people of England in the war.

Supplementing chancellor's statement that Great Britain has more than thirty-six divisions of troops—roughly 700,000 men—on the continent, and that the output of munitions has increased enormously, Mr. Tennant said, speaking on behalf of the secretary of war, Lord Kitchener, that the war effort had been most satisfactory and gratifying; that the health of all troops was splendid; that the wounded were in the London hospitals twenty-four hours after they were stricken in France. He wished to impress on the country the necessity of increasing the supply of arms and ammunition, adding that there was no limit to the amount required.

BIG DRIVE ABOUT TO BEGIN.

Supplementing the cabinet ministers in making known the number of men at the front, and the reports that each Londoner from various sources have convinced the people that at last the big effort of the British army in Turkey is about to commence. Both in the Aegean and North seas there are signs of increasing activity. From the east steamboat communication with Turkey is stopped by order of the British government.

Taken in connection with the news from Berlin that British submarines have been in the Bight of Helgoland, where the German admiralty has claim to a base, it is believed that more is believed to, furthermore some statement in the press that there is no longer any endeavor to hide the fact that a big Anglo-French force is being prepared in the east.

General Amade, the French commander in the Turkish campaign, has been ordered to the Aegean sea, to the north of the gulf of Smyrna, to the support of the British army. At the same time there is news of transport loaded with troops passing the island of Lemnos, and of the entrance of the Lusitania, and of the being sent to Smyrna, on the coast of Asia Minor.

WHERE WILL BLOW BE STRUCK?

This makes it uncertain where the blow will be struck. The French troops in the Aegean sea, including Salonika, who were transferred from France to the Aegean sea, from the outbreak of the empire, and the dispersing of the German and German raiders, are considered as being in the Aegean sea.

Further east, in Mesopotamia, the Turkish army sent men to the British advance from the Persian gulf, after having suffered heavy casualties, is in full retreat, harassed not only by the British, but by Arab tribesmen, who had enlisted on their side, and who, now that the British have been defeated, have turned against them.

Nearer home, the British are holding the line in the Aegean sea, which they captured from the Germans in 1914, and have been trying to retake since the outbreak of the war. On the two sides of the German frontier, the Russian army is being retrained.

RUSSIANS REPEL AUSTRIAN ASSAULTS.

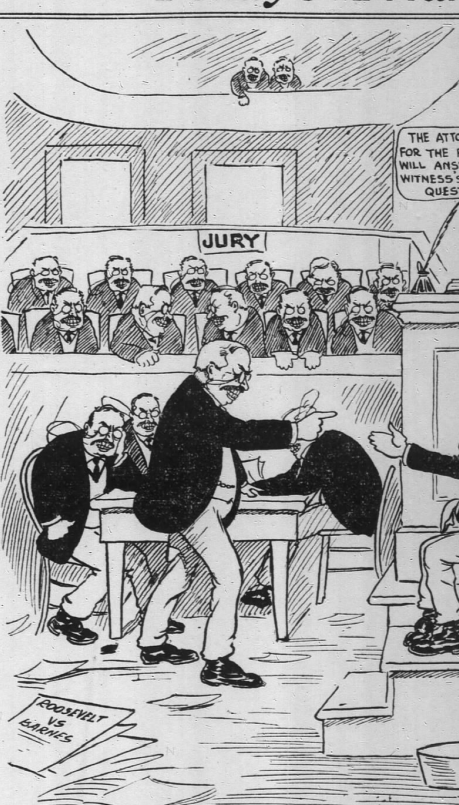

The Russians, according to their accounts, are repelling repeated Austrian assaults on the southeast of Lemberg, on the Carpathians, and are holding their position. The Austrians are attacking on their flanks near Tarnopol, in western Galicia, and are trying to force the part of the same province. These attacks apparently are being made with the object of holding the Russians where they are while the British are preparing to strike at the Russian lines at some other point, possibly from the direction of Czarow.

TEMPERATURE IS DUE TO KEEP ON CLIMBING

The weather man did his utmost, even managing to draw a few slight showers Wednesday night, but his prediction for moisture Thursday fell as flat as a drink that's knocked off.

Instead of the raw, rainy day that was forecasted for Thursday, the morning bloomed fair and radiant with sun, and the temperature climbed high, and the wind was from the south.

ATLANTA SURRENDERS TO ARMY OF TAGGERS

Red Hearts Decorated Practically Every Man and Woman in City Thursday.

Tag Day a Success.

Tag Day netted over $4,000 for the maintenance fund of the Shelters Arms. Considering recent business conditions, the officials of Tag Day consider the amount acquired Thursday to be not only a great triumph, but a record for the city.

Never did public-spirited young girls and women set about so energetically to obtain a tag-seller record as they did today. The tag-sellers were a fine lot of young people who advanced upon downtown Atlanta bright and early Thursday morning.

The object of "Tag Day" is to provide funds for the Shelters Arms, one of Atlanta's most worthy and charitable institutions, which cares for the orphans and children of Atlanta's poor.

Under the direction of Mrs. H. K. Kiser, capable assistants canvassed the city, and later Mrs. Kiser went to New York, leaving as her address there, "Mrs. F. A. Campbell, Grand Union hotel, New York."

Mrs. Blair said Mr. Campbell spoke for her regarding the picture of a baby that she had given her mother.

Asked whether the former Mrs. Hicks had ever seen the picture, Mrs. Blair replied "I suppose so."

She refused to go into details concerning the picture of her step-daughter to an English duke.

Heiress to Millions Not Child of Man

She Called Father Witness Swears Mrs. Burnham Is Not Daughter of Late Multi-Millionaire Campbell—Mother Wife of English Duke.

St. Louis, Mo., April 22.—Testimony that Mrs. Edith Campbell, Burnham, legate of the late $16,000,000 estate of the late James Campbell, millionaire, is not the daughter of the late Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Hicks and is not Campbell's child, was given in circuit court here today by Mrs. Edith Blair, of St. Louis, step-mother of Mrs. Blair.

Mrs. Blair testified that Mrs. Hicks now is living in England and is the wife of a duke, but she refused to give her step-daughter's exact whereabouts.

She said her step-daughter married Oscar Hicks, in 1912, and that he disappeared the same year in September of that year, he testified, when Mrs. Hicks expected to become a mother.

James Campbell called on her in California and later Mrs. Hicks went to New York, leaving as her address there, "Mrs. F. A. Campbell, Grand Union hotel, New York."

Mrs. Blair said Mr. Campbell spoke for her regarding the picture of a baby that she had given her mother.

Asked whether the former Mrs. Hicks had ever seen the picture, Mrs. Blair replied "I suppose so."

NURSE ASKS POLICE TO RECOVER JEWELS STOLEN FROM ROOM

Miss Lillian Jocelyn, head nurse of the Davis-Fischer sanatorium, at 25 East Lenoir street, has reported to city detectives that she has been robbed of a large amount of jewels, which she kept in her room.

According to the record book at police station, Miss Jocelyn is the owner of the following jewels: A platinum ring, set with a large pearl, surrounded by diamonds, three on each side; a ring of same design, set with one diamond and a gold band ring, set with three large sapphires, and a pearl center pin.

City detectives say the Pinkertons have been engaged in the investigation of the robbery, and that a suspect is under police surveillance.

A city detective said last night that he had gathered some good evidence concerning the guilty person, and would recover the stolen jewelry today.

TEACHERS' PAY MAYSON CAUSES CONSTERNATION AT MEETING OF BOARD OF EDUCATION.

NO CREDIT FOR SERVICE OUTSIDE CITY ALLOWED BY LAW, SAYS MAYSON

Change in Present Policy Might Prove Disastrous, According to Superintendent W. M. Slaton.

The city board of education has been paying out illegally for teachers' salaries thousands of dollars for the past eight or ten years, according to an opinion given by the board Thursday afternoon by City Attorney James L. Mayson.

The opinion caused such consternation among the board members that they left the whole matter up in the air by a vote after a discussion lasting more than two hours.

It was then the board adjourned for many years to give credit for service to teachers who have taught in other cities before coming to Atlanta.

In doing this the teacher received a salary higher than she would otherwise have been paid. If, for instance, a teacher came to Atlanta from Macon where she had served, say, three years, and if, after teaching a month in the Atlanta schools, she made good, she would be placed on the salary scale for three years.

Mayor Made a Discovery. At the last meeting of the board when Superintendent Slaton began to read out a list of teachers who were given credit for service in other cities and whose salaries had, therefore, been increased, Mayor Woodward exclaimed:

"What?"

When the matter was explained to him, he said it was illegal and on his motion, it was tabled until the attorney could be heard from. The city clerk, however, said that at the afternoon. The mayor, however, was not present.

At the attitude taken by the mayor it is not at all improbable that some of the teachers who have been given credit for service in other cities will refuse to take the money to the city.

It is said that some thousands of dollars, it is said.

Wanted It Stopped. No member of the board has any suggestion about trying to get back the money overpaid.

It was made by Harvey Fletcher that no more such illegal salaries be paid out.

Ordinary changes moved to table the motion, and it was lost by a vote of 5 to 4.

Chambers thought the whole matter should be left severely alone, and that the least said is soonest mended. Mr. Miller was not to pay the forthcoming raises in salary.

Superintendent Slaton said it had been the policy of the board for many years to give service credit to teachers who had taught in other cities, and that he had no objection to it.

He said that he had no objection to it, and that he had no objection to it, and that he had no objection to it.

He said that he had no objection to it, and that he had no objection to it, and that he had no objection to it.

On Town Righteousness And His Numerous Deals With the Wicked Bosses

For Five Hours the Colonel Was on the Stand and on Several Occasions He Was More Cross-Examiner Than Cross-Examined.

ROOSEVELT DECLARED HE DEALT WITH BOSSES

The Colonel Readily Admitted He Worked with the Bosses to Secure Nomination for Governor.

The Colonel Was Very Emphatic, Grimacing, Smiling and Slapping His Thigh as He Testified.

STANBURY, N. Y., April 22.—Theodore Roosevelt spent five strenuous hours under cross-examination in the supreme court here today. He admitted without any hesitation that he had verbally and in writing discussed with the bosses the question of obtaining the nomination for governor of the state of New York.

He admitted as being his letter he wrote to Samuel E. Quigg, of New York, a republican leader, and now a delegate to the state constitutional convention, which he discussed with the bosses, and the passage of Quigg's assurances to former United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, that he would, in the event of his election, respect the senator's position as head of the republican party, and would "consult with him freely and fully on all important matters."

He testified that he did confer with Mr. Platt, the so-called "easy boss," but he said, he did so with regard to the interests of the party, and a genuine desire to keep the republican party together and minimize "the centralization of power in the hands of a few men."

He saw the two young men as they came out of the Kimball house and followed them six blocks out South Pryor street, then the arrest was made by Call officers.

The detective John Black and Jim Doyal took up the investigation of the two suspects, whom Sams positively identified.

The suspects gave their names and addresses as follows: H. S. Davis, age 21, 278 Glenwood avenue. C. S. Pierce, age 22, 1000 North Pryor street.

They will be tried before Recorder Johnson this afternoon.

Increase of $85,557,517 In Georgia's Tax Values Shown in Hart's Report

Judge John C. Hart, state tax commissioner, on Thursday submitted to Comptroller General William A. Wright his first annual report, which states that the total value of property for ad valorem taxation in 1914 was $85,557,517.

$72,787, which was increased largely under the operation of the equalization tax act, in 1914, to $85,557,517. The report sets forth in detail tabular form the various items bringing about this gain, the salient features of which are set forth in the following summary paragraphs:

"The largest increase in any particular item of property is that of improved land, to wit: $46,284,822. This is not due to the fact that there has been any material increase in the value of land per acre, but to the fact that the increased acreage of improved land amounts to 755,891 acres. This is land made up of which was never before put on the digest.

Much Land is Found.

"There are several counties in Georgia which discovered as many as 50,000 acres not heretofore on the digest, and in which no taxes were paid. The hitherto value of land per acre for taxation in these counties was actually lowered in consequence of the discovery of this unreturned land. City and town property shows an increase of $22,788,422. Shares in banks and surplus show an increase of $3,440,146. Money and solvent debts show an increase of $6,300,000.

"Item opposite 'Stocks and Bonds,' showing a decrease, is misleading, and explained by the fact that tax receivers under that column in the digest had included in previous years bank stock. These shares, appearing in this year in the column where they properly belong, to wit: 'Shares in Banks and Surplus,' increased that item $2,440,146. The decrease of $75,688, under the head of 'Cotton, Corn and Other Farm Products,' is because recent constitutional amendment exempting such products from taxation.

"Fulton county's increase shows a net aggregate whole property of $1,193,082 in 1914 over the year of 1913.

Increase by Counties.

Meets at Albany and Valdosta Indorse Routes for Highway

Central Route Indorsed for Dixie Highway at Meeting in Valdosta.

Delegates Vote for Highway Through Americus, Albany, Thomasville, Tallahassee.

Valdosta, Ga., April 22.—(Special)—The good roads convention in this city, the fourth of the Dixie highway, was attended by 400 representatives from every county on the central route except two and was the most enthusiastically attended session of the American Highway Union since its inception. A permanent association to be known as the National Dixie Highway Association with agreement to build a magnificent highway from Jacksonville to Jacksonville was the outcome of the convention of the association.

John L. Herring of Tifton, was elected president of the association; W. H. Dorris of Valdosta, secretary; H. H. Tift Jr., vice president, and H. H. Tift Jr., vice president, composed of the above officers, will present the claims and advantages of the route favored at the meeting here today to the commissioners of the Dixie highway.

At the meeting here pickets were furnished in writing from the officials of every county, city and town on the proposed route, binding them to build and maintain a continuous modern road that would meet the specifications and approval of the commissioners of the Dixie highway.

The following are the directors of the association: Dixie county, Bruce Nichols and W. H. Dorris; Tift county, H. H. Tift Jr. and Lewis Harrison; Berrien county, Dr. R. C. Woodard and S. S. Smithe; Lowndes county, C. F. Clarke and H. Y. Tiltman; Echols county, J. McCall, Columbus county, Florida, C. R. Harris and C. E. Roberts; Baker county, Florida, C. M. Goodland and C. M. Griffith; Nassau county, C. J. Compton; Duval county, C. J. Nelson and J. M. Sauer.

The route for the Dixie highway as outlined at the meeting here is, by actual survey, much shorter than any other route to Jacksonville and Miami. It follows the route of the Georgia Southern and Florida railway and the National highway from Jacksonville to Valdosta, thence by way of Jasper, White Springs and Lake City to Jacksonville.

The route is laid along the water-shed through north Georgia and north Florida and has the most beautiful sections of these states. Within the next few days the section of the central route for the Dixie highway, which will be presented at the meeting here today, was a good roads convention in the town of Valdosta, where the permanent organization, backed by the pleasure of the travel, assured the building and maintenance of a modern highway.

It was agreed upon the consideration of the Dixie highway commission, the Dixie county board of commissioners, H. H. Tift Jr., chairman, and called the meeting to order at 11 o'clock. H. H. Tift Jr. was elected permanent chairman.

On two days next week the city public schools will be dismissed an hour earlier so the children and teachers can attend the grand opera of education Thursday afternoon.

The two days on which this will be done are Tuesday and Thursday, these being the days on which there will be grand opera matinees.

A majority of the members of the board recommended the plan that good music was a part of a child's education. The board voted that to give two hours from the studies and to go to grand opera would be beneficial.

Colonel W. L. Deel appeared before the board and told what the grand opera had done for Atlanta, how patriotic citizens and taken a great financial risk in order to do something that would redound to the credit of the city and how everybody was ready to show the Atlanta Spirit by helping in the enterprise. He urged that public schools should shut out line.

The schools did not shut out all the teachers and every child can attend the opera on every Tuesday or Thursday.

Visitors to St. Louis are courteously invited to inspect our plant—covers 145 acres.

James Madison—"Father of the Constitution"

THE FOURTH PRESIDENT of the United States considered it a greater honor to be declared the Father of the Constitution than to have been elected twice to the highest office in the gift of his countrymen. No more ardent, intelligent, far-sighted and constant student of governmental problems ever lived than Madison. They were his life-long passion. He it was who labored with all his gigantic ability and indomitable will to have deeply imbedded in our National Law those vital principles which forever guarantee to all Americans Religious, Commercial and Personal Liberty.

James Madison—"Father of the Constitution"

While the meeting was in session, a telegram was received from Tallahassee announcing passage by the Florida legislature of the following resolution, indorsing a route through Tallahassee:

"Whereas, it is important to the state of Florida as a whole that as much mileage as possible be recognized in this connection for the purpose of better showing the attractions and advantages of our state in this great movement; therefore, be it resolved, that the senate and house in joint resolution indorsing the route proposed, that will unite the capitals of these states, linking together the Dixie highway, bringing us closer together in bonds of mutual friendship and good roads."

"Resolved, we hope this route will be the best available from Atlanta to Tallahassee, thence east to Jacksonville, connecting there with the Miami and Quincy highway."

"Resolved, that these resolutions be certified to by the clerk of the senate and house and furnish same to the Tallahassee board of trade to be forwarded to the commissioners of the Dixie Highway of Georgia and Florida."

The keynote of the meeting here today, presided over by Mayor Tarter of Albany, was a determination to tie the capitals of Georgia and Florida together with not only the most picturesque southern highway, but one surpassed by none in the southern states for uniform excellence. Those attending today's meeting were entertained at dinner by the Albany Chamber of Commerce.
